

"The effective teacher," according to history professor JOSEPH BOSKIN, "is someone who is not afraid to wrestle with new ideas in the classroom." On the Master Plan, Boskin qualifies the unbridled enthusiasm toward it with a warning that "If any tendency toward an impersonal relationship between teacher and student can be avoided, the plan could enhance education at USC immediately."

BRUCE SPECTOR exemplifies the fact that hard work can pay off — it did for him this year when he was awarded a Woodrow Wilson Fellowship. Besides maintaining a 3.86 average as an economics major, he found time for Blue Key, Phi Beta Kappa, Knights, Tau Epsilon Pi and an economics honorary. He plans to study constitutional law at Hastings College of Law.

Urged on by first hand experience in the problems of the hard-of-hearing, BETH HECKEL has been a devoted student in USC's Speech Therapy program. While she is most interested in clinical work, she graduates with a credential allowing her to teach exceptional children. Beth was also active in social and professional organizations while maintaining a 3.3 average.

Delta Kappa Alpha

The national society for cinema students, Delta Kappa Alpha, was established at USC in 1937. There are currently five national chapters with a membership of over 1500. Furthering the art of cinema as well as promoting better relations between the members and the theatrical and documentary industries are the primary purposes of the organization. Well known for its popular Friday Evening Film Showings, DKA has become an active part of campus life. This year's officers for the USC Alpha Chapter included Dennis Galling, president, Harvey

Deneroff, Roy Lim and Laura Conaton.
Faculty adviser was Richard Harber.
